MJC Presidential Finalist Field Narrowed to Two

September 22, 2005

MODESTO, CA – The Modesto Junior College (MJC) Presidential finalist field has been narrowed down to two candidates. Dr. Luke Robins, Executive Vice President for Instruction at National Park Community College in Hot Springs, Arkansas and Dr. Hans Kuss, Vice-President of Educational Program Development at Wong International in Aliso Viejo, California remain as the lone finalists as a result of Dr. Laura Douglas and Dr. John Garmon, withdrawing their names from consideration.

According to Yosemite Community College District Chancellor James Williams, “we are moving forward with the remaining candidates and the forums.” The withdrawal of the two candidates will change the open forum schedule, where the public and campus community are invited to learn more about the finalists. Dr. Kuss, originally slated for a Thursday forum, has been moved up to Tuesday.

The new schedule and locations for the candidate forums are as follows:
