

HUMAN RESOURCE SPECIALISTDEFINITION

Under general supervision, performs complex paraprofessional work in support of specialized human resources functions; provides paraprofessional assistance in areas such as classification, compensation, labor relations, benefits administration, and maintenance of personnel information; researches, gathers, processes and maintains information using computers and other office equipment; provides information and assistance to District management, employees and the public; and performs related duties as assigned.

DISTINGUISHING CHARACTERISTICS

This is a highly specialized, advanced-level technical administrative class of the Human Resources Support Series within the Yosemite Community College District (YCCD).

Incumbents perform a combination of technical support to professional HR staff in the administration of human resource functions and programs. Incumbents utilize highly technical knowledge to perform the most complex work in the areas of day to day personnel administration and maintenance of personnel information and assist professional staff in the development and implementation of goals, objectives, policies and priorities. Incumbents must also be able to interface substantially with District employees, vendors and members of the public.

This class differs from the lower-level class of Human Resources Technician because Human Resources Specialist performs advanced and highly complex work assignments and may serve as lead workers. In contrast, a Human Resources Technician independently performs routine technical administrative work and may assist higher-level administrative staff with advanced and highly complex assignments.
